Press release on 10 years of S+ Systemmöbel

10 years of S+ Systemmöbel

Ten years of S+, that's right, but it's not the whole story either. We have already been manufacturing system furniture in Germany for 28 years. Our experience began in 1995 when we took over the production of a series of system furniture. Founded at that time as sdr+, we saved the furniture systems from being discontinued in Germany. Preservation was to be our task for many years and became our DNA. But in 2012, the licences for sdr+ came to an end and we were faced with the question of what to do with 18 years of experience and the Table M04 and the Side Table M05 in our luggage and decided to start something new.

S+ Systemmöbel was born: new production possibilities and our direct contact with dealers, planners and end customers, their expectations and wishes gave rise to a new system that unites two classic themes in furniture history, the shelf and the carcass furniture. System M by Thomas Merkel is the basis of the S+ collection today. Continuously maintained and further developed, it is popular with planners and customers for its flexibility and adaptability. Further additions to the collection such as the Side tables Kaiser and Kanji and the Lotus table were added in the following years. And most recently with other newly developed products such as Nitō, whose origins go back further than our own, S+ continues to move forward today.

We believe that life is made of changes and it is good if things can change as well, our own development has also taught us this.
